

Post-Game Notes
Hawai'i at San Jose State
Nov. 15, 2014

- UH ended the nation's longest road losing streak at 17 games (also a school record). UH's last road win came at Idaho (16-14) on Oct. 29, 2011.
- It was UH's first Mountain West road win in 11 contests (1-10) since joining the conference in 2012. UH also snapped a streak of 11 straight road conference games overall dating back to 2011.
- UH handed Norm Chow the first road win during his three-year tenure (1-16).
- UH recorded its first shutout since defeating Idaho, 24-0, on Sept. 24, 2005. UH opponents had scored in 123 straight games during that span.
- UH ended a two-game skid in its series versus San Jose State. UH tied the series 18-18-1 and now leads 7-6-1 in San Jose.
- UH led at halftime for just the third time this season (also vs. No. Iowa, Nevada).
- UH's 90-yard drive to end the first half, capped by a Joey Iosefa's 1-yard plunge, was the team's longest scoring drive of the season.
- Iosefa scored for the second straight game since his return and leads the team with six TDs.
- Senior safety Taz Stevenson, the team's leading tackler, missed his first game of the season. Steven Lakalaka, the team's leading rusher, also missed the game.
- True freshman Daniel Lewis got the start in place of Stevenson and snuffed out a SJSU drive with a key interception at the UH goal line. It was Lewis' second career interception.
- UH blocked two field goal attempts (Lance Williams, Moses Samia). It was the first time that UH recorded a blocked field goal(s) since 2011 (John Hardy Tuliau vs. Tulane).
- Niko Uti recorded his first career sack when he took down Joe Gray for a 7-yard loss in the second quarter.
- Redshirt freshmen Ammon Barker (WR) and Elijah Tupai (LG) made their first career starts.
- UH won despite registering a season-low 240 yards.
- UH did not allow a 100-yard rusher for the first time in seven games.
- After throwing just two interceptions through the first six games, Ikaika Woolsey has thrown at least one interception in each of the last five games, a total of eight during that span.
